Good Morning Jill

Sorry not to get back before. It's been a confusing time.

Since I last emailed we have had a representative out from Klargestar who confirmed that a soakaway was not necessary. BUT without one I wonder if we are technically discharging into the watercourse (despite being some way from it).

IN the light of your email and the concerns of the neighbours, the simplest thing to do seems to be to add the soakaway to the system as I mentioned in the last email. We have done a percolation test and will send the results along with a map/diagram.

Many thanks for your help

Lorraine
