Hi yes it is flush fitting. The CAD drawings were done right at the start but the joiner is aware no stormproofing and no trickle vents. The scale is whatever you requested, was it 1:20 off the top of my head?

Many thanks

Dear Christine,

Many thanks for getting back to me so quickly. Please could you confirm what scale the drawings have been produced to as this is not stated on the drawing.

I will forward this information to the Building Conservation team and advise you when I have received their response.

To confirm, the CAD drawings appear to show a stormproof window, however the below photograph seems to show a flush fitting window. The Authority would only support the use of a flush fitting window and I would be grateful if you could confirm that the proposed window will be flush fitting.

I will request confirmation from the Building Conservation team on a suitable colour for the external windows and doors.

Kind regards,

K. Blain

Hi photos of current doors and Windows, in need of some TLC but will be completed when the house complete. When it comes to colour/paint etc, you have stipulated brown or grey-to save tooing and froing can national parks just say what colour etc they want us to have as it's easier than me saying and then you coming back with something else etc.

All windows have no trickle vents etc.

A speedy reply would be lovely as we are intending on them being installed soon.

Thank you for your help.

Christine
