NYM/2021/0072/FL Retention of agricultural storage building not built in accordance with NYM/2018/0002/AGRP at Linglands Farm, Gowland Lane

The above application has been considered by Cloughton Parish Council. Council takes a dim view of applications which seek to regularise retrospective development.

Council is concerned about the size of the building since it is considerably larger than the 465 sq. m. allowed under the agriculture notifications law extant at the time of the application and decision. It is acknowledged that The Town and Country Planning (General Permitted Development) (England) (Amendment) Order 2018 which came into force on 6th April 2018 allow a building of under 1,000 sq.m. to be constructed under the amendments at Part 6. It is therefore accepted that were this application to be submitted now, it would qualify for the Part 6 exemption on size grounds.

However, Council is concerned that while the original application did not show any rooflights - presumably because they were not deemed necessary in a building which was to be use for the storage of agricultural produce - the building currently applied for shows 40 rooflights and says the building is to be used for storage of straw and farm machinery. It is thought that the angle of the roof will result in sunlight being reflected from the rooflights - this will mean the building being visible from a considerable distance. Officers will recall the problem of reflected light from farm building roofs was an issue with the buildings at the new farmstead at Cloughton Fields and Council sees nothing to say the same problem will not occur with the current application. Council can see no justification for all these rooflights.

Council therefore asks that 1] use of the building is restricted to the storage of agricultural produce produced on this agricultural holding and farm machinery (ie use for housing livestock is specifically prohibited) and 2] the rooflights are removed and replaced with ordinary roof sheets.
