I have read the bat survey by Curtis Ecology which is very thorough. The survey concludes that the buildings have low or negligible value for roosting bats and are not particularly well connected to good habitat for bats. The photos show that a number of the buildings are very light with flimsy roofs and unsuitable for bats. There is also a re-entry survey which did not show any bats using the buildings. The method statement at 7.1 on page 26 should be conditioned, and if works take place in winter there will need to be a hibernation survey on building 3.

Best wishes
Sara

That's odd, Hilary; I have no record of this one, but will look at the reports asap.

Sara, assuming you've not seen this either, please can you assess the bat elements for us?

Best wishes, Rona

Hi Rona,

Just sorting through my files and realised I haven't received any comments from you on this – you were consulted on 1 September?

Thanks

Hilary
