As a former resident and frequent visitor to RHB I may have no formal standing in the process, but would nevertheless wish to state my view.

I cannot see the need for this development, nor see how it can be achieved without creating problems of littering and loss of amenity.

It may well have been the case that in the past there were similar facilities to those proposed, but, as can be seen in the photographs, this was in a different era. Today, there are substantial differences in terms of visitor numbers and the facilities already provided for them. Also, we have learnt to respect our environment far more than previously, and would not nowadays regard a tea hut as an unconditional improvement to this stretch of heritage coastline
