Design and Access Statement.

The re-routed track is to allow light vehicle access to the Transmission station, connecting up to the existing track which originated through the Yorwaste Transfer Site (see plans).

Due to the alterations in working practices, increased workloads and site traffic, health and safety issues, security and night time closure of the site Yorwaste are requesting that Arqiva, the transmission Mast operators, cease to pass through their premises from December 2012.

Consequently Arqiva approached ourselves for rerouting the access through an existing field gate for the maintenance vehicles.

The track will be 150 m long 2.5m wide, constructed of crushed stone and will 'grass over' in time. Photographs of the existing track are provided in support of the application.

There will be no public access and the gate will be chained and locked.

Yours sincerely

Thomas Cummins.
