House, early C18 with alterations. Coursed sandstone of near-ashlar quality; pantiled roof with stone ridge, copings, kneelers and stack. 2 storeys and attic, 3 bays, irregular. Between the 2 right bays a door of 3 beaded panels with radial fanlight, in pilaster-and-archivolt doorcase. Right 16-pane sash on both floors, left two 12-pane sashes on each floor, all in wood architraves. Traces of original shorter, wider windows; the present ones have been lengthened and narrowed, probably in early C19. Large C20 dormer rests on eaves. Phoenix firemark at top centre.

House, late C18-early C19. Coursed herringbone-tooled sandstone rendered addition; pantiled roof with stone coping and kneeler. House on sloping site with external stone stair to entrance. 2 storeys and high basement, 1 wide bay and another bay canted back at right, with added attic over. At right in first bay a 3-panel door under small bracketed wood hood. Left 16-pane sash and a 12-pane sash above. Right bay blank but for 9-pane sash on ground floor. Moulded eaves course; coping and kneeler at left. Right return shows 2 replaced 16-pane sashes and a 12-pane fixed light. The added attic is of full storey height and has paired sash windows. Small pent rear extension is not of special interest.
